Respondent.

COMPLAINT

This complaint is filed pursuant to 52 U.S.C. § 30109(a)(1) against David McCormick (“Respondent”). Mr. McCormick announced on December 20, 2021 that he was creating an exploratory committee for Pennsylvania’s open U.S. Senate seat in the 2022 election. According to media records, Mr. McCormick spent over $500,000 on December 20, 2021 for at least one TV advertisement that began running on December 21, 2021. He has now spent over $2 million on TV advertisements, yet he has not registered as a candidate. Under Federal law, Mr. McCormick is required to file a Statement of Candidacy with the Federal Election Commission (“FEC” or “Commission”) within fifteen days of raising or spending $5,000 in support of his candidacy. This filing requirement serves a vital public interest: alerting the general public when an individual has decided to seek federal office and begins to raise and spend money to advance their candidacy. Because it has been more than fifteen days since Mr. McCormick spent a large sum of money on TV advertisement buys, the Commission should immediately investigate whether Mr. McCormick has spent over $5,000 on activities that went beyond merely “testing the waters,” and has thus triggered candidacy for federal office without disclosing his candidacy to the Commission as required by law.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

According to public reports, David McCormick announced his intention to form an exploratory committee for the U.S. Senate seat in Pennsylvania on December 20, 2021.¹ Mr. McCormick reportedly planned to register an entity called the “Friends of Dave McCormick Exploratory Committee” with the IRS at that time, to support his activities as he weighs a bid for the seat.²

Although Mr. McCormick has not formally declared his candidacy, he has taken concrete steps to advance his candidacy. Mr. McCormick reportedly spent over $535,000 on December 20, 2021 for at least one TV advertisement that began running on December 21, 2021.³ He now has two TV advertisements on the air.⁴ In fact, according to media spending analysis, Mr. McCormick spent $659,130 on TV advertising that began on December 21, 2021 and an additional $909,049 on TV advertising that began on December 28, 2021.⁵ Mr. McCormick’s TV advertisements have no purpose other than to boost his name recognition and demonstrate his fitness for office, such as by touting his business and military experience. The advertisements display the disclaimer: “Paid for by Friends of Dave McCormick Exploratory Committee.”⁶

Mr. McCormick has taken several other steps that suggest he has decided to run for Senate. He recently bought a house in Pennsylvania, stepped down from his position as CEO of a hedge fund, and has met with state party leaders and donors.⁷ Mr. McCormick also reportedly began retaining a campaign team as of mid-December 2021.⁸

LEGAL ANALYSIS

An individual becomes a “candidate” for purposes of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended (the “Act”) upon receiving contributions or making expenditures in excess of $5,000 to influence their election for federal office.⁹ Such individuals must file a Statement of Candidacy with the Commission within fifteen days of meeting the threshold for becoming a “candidate.”¹⁰

Commission regulations allow potential candidates to collect contributions and make expenditures outside of the $5,000 candidacy threshold solely for the purpose of “testing the waters.”¹¹ This so-called “testing-the-waters allowance” only applies to activity a candidate conducts “solely for the purpose” of “determining whether [the] individual should become a candidate.”¹² The exemption is not available to individuals who have already decided to become candidates, to activities that indicate an individual has decided to become a candidate, or to activities that are “relevant to conducting a campaign.”¹³

The Commission has previously determined that once an individual “has moved beyond the deliberative process of deciding to become a candidate, and into the process of planning and scheduling public activities designed to heighten his political appeal to the electorate, then . . . the activity would cease to be within the exemption, and candidacy would arise.”¹⁴

Mr. McCormick to date has spent over two million dollars to distribute biographical television advertisements across the state of Pennsylvania. Both the type and amount of this spending indicates that the activity cannot possibly fit within the testing-the-waters exception. Television advertisements by their very nature have no legitimate exploratory purpose. The point of a TV advertisement, like any other form of general public advertising, is to increase a candidate’s name recognition and appeal. Mr. McCormick’s advertisements are designed to do precisely that.

Though Mr. McCormick’s advertisements carefully avoid calling him a candidate for the U.S. Senate seat in Pennsylvania, the advertisements clearly intend to boost Mr. McCormick’s name recognition to advance his candidacy. The advertisements boast about Mr. McCormick’s qualifications in the same manner the public sees in countless other candidate advertisements—by touting his business accomplishments, military record, and dedication to Pennsylvania. One advertisement even features Mr. McCormick speaking directly to the camera, saying: “This is a battle for the heart and soul of America, and we have to win.”¹⁵ Mr. McCormick spent over $1.5 million to run at least one advertisement in December 2021 alone, right after announcing the exploratory committee. Indeed, the disclaimer on the advertisements makes clear that they were paid for by the exploratory committee, which Mr. McCormick formed specifically in reference to his potential Senate bid. The advertisements are clearly in connection with Mr. McCormick’s Senate candidacy.

¹⁴ Advisory Opinion 1981-32 (Askew).

¹⁵ AdImpact, McCormick TV Advertisement #2, <https://host2.adimpact.com/admo/viewer/5209327>.

Mr. McCormick's activity has gone far beyond the scope of what the Commission has recognized as acceptable testing-the-waters activity. He has spent an enormous sum of money—over two million dollars—to advance his candidacy. It appears Mr. McCormick has decided to run for Senate, and he has certainly exceeded the narrow testing-the-waters exemption that the Act and Commission regulations allow. His television spending is not in connection with the “deliberative process of deciding to become a candidate.” Rather, it is intended to heighten Mr. McCormick's political appeal to the Pennsylvania electorate in support of his bid for U.S. Senate. Mr. McCormick has plainly triggered candidacy under the Act, yet he has failed to file any paperwork with the Commission declaring his candidacy.

Mr. McCormick reportedly spent over $500,000 on December 20, 2021 to place at least one TV advertisement that was designed to advance his candidacy. Accordingly, he has missed the deadline to file his Statement of Candidacy within fifteen days of exceeding the $5,000 expenditure threshold, which was January 4, 2022. Mr. McCormick's failure to comply with the law denies transparency to the voters of Pennsylvania.

REQUESTED ACTION

In light of the foregoing, the Commission should immediately investigate whether Mr. McCormick did in fact violate the Act, and if so, the exact date that his candidacy began. If a violation is found, we respectfully request the Commission compel Mr. McCormick to comply with the disclosure requirements imposed upon him as a federal candidate and fine Mr. McCormick the maximum amount permitted by law.

Sincerely,

COMPLAINT

This complaint is filed pursuant to 52 U.S.C. § 30109(a)(1) against Dr. Mehmet Oz, Doctor Oz for Senate, and Oz Media, LLC (together, “Respondents”). Dr. Mehmet Oz is a candidate for U.S. Senate and a television personality. Dr. Oz has hosted a television talk show called “The Dr. Oz Show” for over 12 years and has commercialized his name and brand over many years in the public spotlight. Now, Dr. Oz is capitalizing off these corporate resources in his campaign for U.S. Senate. At the core of federal campaign finance law is the rule that candidates may not accept corporate contributions. The risk of violating this law is especially high when the candidate has vast corporate resources at his disposal. Already at the launch of Dr. Oz’s Senate campaign, the line between Dr. Oz’s campaign and his media enterprise is blurred at best. The campaign's logo is effectively identical to the logo of The Doctor Oz Show. Dr. Oz is using his talk show's website domain as his campaign website. And Dr. Oz now uses the social media accounts he built to promote his personal and business brands for campaign purposes. Accordingly, corporate entities affiliated with Dr. Oz (including Oz Media, LLC) may have made impermissible in-kind contributions to Doctor Oz for Senate by lending these and potentially other resources to the campaign. Federal law also prohibits a corporation from using its name or marks to facilitate the making of contributions to a federal candidate. Oz Media, LLC may have violated this law by allowing its logo to be used in connection with Doctor Oz for Senate's fundraising efforts.

It is not unique that a TV personality is running for elected office. It is not unique that Dr. Oz has widespread name recognition. What is unique is that Dr. Oz is overtly capitalizing off commercial brands and resources to obtain an unfair advantage. The Federal Election Commission (the "Commission") should investigate: (1) whether Dr. Mehmet Oz and Doctor Oz for Senate have violated the law by accepting corporate in-kind contributions; (2) whether Oz Media, LLC and any other corporate entities have made impermissible in-kind contributions to Doctor Oz for Senate; and (3) whether Oz Media, LLC and any other corporate entities have used their names and/or marks to facilitate the making of contributions to Doctor Oz for Senate.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Dr. Oz is a candidate for U.S. Senate. His principal campaign committee, Doctor Oz for Senate, filed its Statement of Organization with the Commission on November 30, 2021.¹ Since announcing his candidacy, Dr. Oz has launched a campaign website (<https://doctoroz.com>), placed campaign advertisements, and promoted his campaign on social media. It appears that

¹ See FEC, Statement of Organization of Doctor Oz for Senate, <https://docquery.fec.gov/cgi-bin/forms/C00795930/1550278/>.

Doctor Oz for Senate may have used several corporate assets and resources to produce its campaign materials.

Campaign Logo

First, the campaign's logo is essentially identical to the logo of The Doctor Oz Show. The show's commercial logo features the words "The Dr. Oz Show" in a box, in various color combinations (see examples below). The entity Oz Media, LLC owns the trademark for the show's name and logo.²

Example 3⁵:

The campaign logo is essentially identical to The Dr. Oz Show’s commercial logo. The campaign logo features the words “Dr. Oz” and “U.S. Senate” in the exact same boxed design, using an identical looking font, in various color combinations (see examples below).

Example 3⁸:

The campaign appears to have used the exact design of The Dr. Oz Show’s logo. It simply removed the word “The” and replaced “Show” with “U.S. Senate.” Yet a search of the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office database did not identify any trademarks owned by Doctor Oz for Senate. And The Dr. Oz Show trademark is still owned by Oz Media, LLC.

Campaign Website

Second, Dr. Oz’s campaign website lives at the same URL that hosted The Dr. Oz Show website since at least 2010: <https://doctoroz.com>.⁹ The registrant of the domain “doctoroz.com” is Oz Media, LLC.¹⁰

⁸ YouTube, Doctor Oz for Senate, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YjBbQQZQcaA>.

⁹ The Dr. Oz Show premiered in 2009. See IMDb, The Dr. Oz Show, <https://www.imdb.com/title/tt1442070/>.

¹⁰ See ICANN, Registration Data Lookup Tool, Search term: “doctoroz.com,” <https://lookup.icann.org/lookup>; see also Who.is, Domain Lookup Tool, <https://who.is/whois/doctoroz.com> (listing the registrant of doctoroz.com as “OzMedia, LLC, c/o Davis & Gilbert LLP”).

In fact, the website that now houses the campaign was dedicated to promoting The Dr. Oz Show and Dr. Oz's brands for over a decade, from 2010 through November 29, 2021—the day before he announced his candidacy for Senate.¹¹ As one media outlet aptly described it, "Dr. Oz replaces talk show website with official campaign for Senate seat in PA."¹² See Exhibit A for several screenshots of archived versions of doctoroz.com before it was converted into a campaign website. Curiously, The Dr. Oz Show's website appears to have moved to the domain <https://www.drozshow.com> in December 2021. While this domain existed before December 2021, it simply redirected to what is now the campaign website (doctoroz.com). See Exhibit B.

Building a website inevitably involves significant costs—buying the domain, coding the website, and hosting it, all of which were presumably covered using corporate funds for over a decade.

Campaign Social Media Accounts

Third, Dr. Oz is using multiple social media accounts to promote the campaign that were previously used to promote The Dr. Oz Show and Dr. Oz's commercial brands. The campaign website links to Facebook¹³, Twitter¹⁴, YouTube¹⁵, and TikTok¹⁶ accounts. While these accounts now post campaign content, they were promoting The Dr. Oz Show as recently as November 2021. The prior content of these accounts suggests the accounts might belong to a corporate entity and/or might have been curated with corporate resources.

Campaign Ad

Fourth, Doctor Oz for Senate appears to have used corporate resources in the campaign launch advertisement. The video features numerous photos and clips that appear to be from The Dr. Oz Show, including several clips that include The Dr. Oz Show logo.¹⁷ It is unclear whether Doctor Oz for Senate licensed this content from the copyright owner or whether Dr. Oz simply used the content given his access to corporate resources.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Corporations are prohibited from making contributions to federal candidates and their authorized committees under the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended (the “Act”).¹⁸ The Act and Commission regulations define “contribution” as “any gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money or anything of value made by any person for the purpose of influencing any election for Federal office.”¹⁹ “Anything of value” includes in-kind contributions, defined as the provision of any goods or services without charge or at a charge that is less than the usual and normal charge for such goods or services.²⁰ The Act also prohibits candidates from knowingly accepting or receiving any corporate contribution.²¹ In other words, a campaign may not accept or use corporate resources or assets without paying fair market value for such use. Otherwise, an impermissible corporate contribution results. Moreover, the Commission has specifically determined that a corporation’s name, trademarks, and service

¹⁸ 52 U.S.C. § 30118; 11 C.F.R. § 114.2(b).

¹⁹ 52 U.S.C. § 30101(8)(A)(i); see also 11 C.F.R. § 100.51(a).

²⁰ 11 C.F.R. § 100.52(d)(1).

²¹ 52 U.S.C. § 30118(a).

marks are things of value owned by the corporation, and that authorizing a committee to use them constitutes an in-kind contribution.²²

Doctor Oz for Senate is using valuable resources for campaign purposes that appear to belong to Oz Media, LLC and/or other corporate entities. First, the campaign repurposed the logo for The Dr. Oz Show, a trademark that is owned by Oz Media, LLC. Pursuant to Commission precedent, this would constitute a prohibited in-kind contribution if the corporate entity or its agent authorized such use. Even if the campaign is not using the trademark itself, given the slight variation in wording, an in-kind contribution likely resulted when the campaign used The Dr. Oz Show's logo design, which was developed and promoted with corporate resources. Second, the campaign is using as its website a domain that is owned by Oz Media, LLC. This also results in an in-kind contribution unless the campaign is paying fair market value to rent the domain. Even then, the question arises of whether corporate resources were used to develop the website. For example, if Oz Media, LLC paid a software developer to build out the website and the campaign took over all of that infrastructure, a corporate in-kind contribution would result. Third, Dr. Oz's social media accounts appear to have been used for corporate purposes prior to his candidacy and have now been repurposed to support his campaign. The Commission should investigate whether these accounts were curated and promoted with corporate resources, which could result in an impermissible in-kind contribution. Fourth, the campaign uses several photographs and video clips in its launch advertisement from The Dr. Oz Show. Photographs are copyrighted by default—meaning an in-kind contribution resulted here unless the campaign paid to license the content.

²² See, e.g., FEC Adv. Op. 2007-10 (Reyes); FEC, Factual and Legal Analysis at 4, MUR 7302 (Tom Campbell for North Dakota, et al.); FEC Factual and Legal Analysis at 10-11, MUR 6110 (Obama Victory Fund).

In short, Dr. Oz's campaign appears to be capitalizing off of corporate resources from Dr. Oz's time as a television personality. The risk of impermissible corporate contributions is especially high here, where the candidate himself appears to have some control over the corporate entities that own assets from The Dr. Oz Show and Dr. Oz's other enterprises.

Similarly, the Commission has asserted that "neither a corporation nor its agents may use the corporation's names, trademarks, or service marks to facilitate the making of contributions to a federal political committee, and a federal political committee may not knowingly accept or receive facilitated contributions."²³ If Oz Media LLC or any other corporate entity authorized the campaign to use The Dr. Oz Show's name, logo, and trademark, those entities may have violated the law by facilitating contributions to a federal candidate. The campaign has co-opted The Dr. Oz Show's logo as its own logo and has also used the show's logo and name in at least one advertisement. The video that features The Dr. Oz Show's name and logo appears on the campaign's website immediately above a campaign solicitation. The campaign also uses the co-opted logo on its donation page. See Exhibit C for screenshots. As with the above discussion of in-kind contributions, the risk of corporate facilitation here is unique because the candidate has corporate resources at his disposal. And he appears to use them.

It apparently was not enough that Dr. Mehmet Oz would start his campaign with celebrity-level name recognition. His campaign is capitalizing off The Dr. Oz Show and potentially using corporate resources and assets to gain an unfair advantage. The blurred line between Dr. Oz's campaign and business is unacceptable and contrary to the spirit and letter of the law.

²³ FEC Adv. Op. 2007-10 (Reyes); see also 11 C.F.R. § 114.2(f).

REQUESTED ACTION

In light of the foregoing, the Commission should immediately investigate whether Respondents did in fact violate the Act and Commission regulations through impermissible corporate in-kind contributions and corporate facilitation of contributions to a federal candidate. The Commission must give this investigation the highest priority. It is imperative to stop ongoing violations and safeguard the integrity of the U.S. Senate election in Pennsylvania. If a violation is found, we respectfully request the Commission enjoin Respondents from further violating the law and fine Respondents the maximum amount permitted by law.

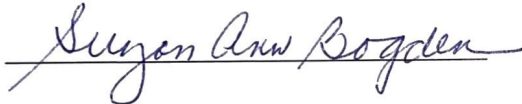

Sincerely,

I've spent my career in medicine working to empower people to take control of their own lives.

The government wants to tell you how to live your life, provide for your family, and make your health care decisions. I believe YOU should be in control.

SUPPORT MY CAMPAIGN TODAY

to take back the power and feel like you are in control of YOUR life again.
